ESTABLISHED 1846. NEWPORT, R. I., WEDNESDAY, APRIL 17, 1912. PRICE TWO CENTS.

AT TITUS'S

The minutest details of home furnishings are most carefully studied to produce harmony and completeness that shall be satisfying to you. A house full of furniture by no means implies a furnished home. It is the fitness of things that counts—must fit the pocket book, too, you say? Yes, we appreciate that and are always careful that moderate price shall be one of the features of our offerings.

Fifty dollars is not an unreasonable price for a room as is illustrated above yet such an effect can easily be produced from our tremendous stock of good things for even less than that.

A careful study of our season's furnishings will prove very profitable as well as very pleasing to you—Call and be convinced.

TITANIC LOSS MAY BE EVEN GREATER.

Carpathia Reports as Many as 2,000, With Only 710 Saved.

Discrepancy as to Number on Board, Which May Have Been Larger Than Supposed.

NEW YORK, April 17.—The Camperdown wireless station at Halifax today sent the Associated Press the following despatch:

"We are now in communication with the Carpathia and in position to announce unofficially that the Titanic struck an enormous berg and sank; over 2,000 lost, 700 survivors, mostly women, on the Carpathia."

The attention of the Camperdown station was at once called to the obvious error in figures, which would give the total of lost and survived at 2,700, whereas the total number of passengers and crew is about 2,200. In reply to this inquiry the following further explanation was received from Halifax:

"The Marconi station reports that nothing authentic regarding loss is known on board the Carpathia, but steamer Franconia, in relaying the messages from the Carpathia, says the total number of saved is only 710. There is no list of missing on the Cunarder and only a rough estimate of her total passenger list. There were probably more than 2,200 on the ship, as quite a number boarded her at Cherbourg."

The estimates of 2,200 on board the Titanic have embraced the sailings from ports including Cherbourg, so far as the company officials have been able to give the information.

The Cunard line this afternoon gave out a copy of a Marconi message from Winfield Thompson of the Boston Globe, who is a passenger on steamship Franconia, saying:

"Steamer Franconia established communication with the Carpathia at 6:10 a. m., New York time. Latter was then 498 miles east of Ambrose channel, in no need of assistance, steaming 13 knots. Expect to reach New York 8-Thursday evening. Has total of 705 survivors aboard. Franconia is relaying personal messages from Carpathia to Sable Island."

The number of 705 survivors given in Mr. Thompson's despatch may mean surviving passengers, as distinguished from the crew. A previous despatch gave the total number of survivors as 868, which was believed to include both the crew and passengers on the Carpathia.

The White Star line makes public the following unsigned message from steamer Carpathia, probably relayed to New York:

"Carpathia east of Ambrose 595 miles 11 p. m. Tuesday. All well."

The Ambrose referred is Ambrose channel at the entrance of New York harbor. The line's officials think the Carpathia will arrive here about 9 o'clock tomorrow night.

This morning the Marconi Wireless Company reported that they had received no communication from the Carpathia and that if atmospheric conditions were favorable they expected to get in communication with the ship when the steamer comes within a distance of this port that can be traversed in 24 hours. The Marconi people said such communication might be effected through the Siasconset station, probably late this afternoon.

No new names have been added to the list of 328 known to be saved. There are on board the Carpathia 540 survivors whose names have not been sent in by wireless. Little hope remains that there are any survivors of the disaster on board steamships other than the Carpathia.

The Titanic probably carried to their death, 1,312 souls.

Scout cruiser Chester is nearing the Carpathia this morning.

A full list of saved and details of the Titanic's collision with the iceberg is hourly expected.

In faintest touch with the wireless station at Sable Island, Cunard liner Carpathia, with 868 survivors of the sunken Titanic on board, was creeping down the coast early this morning, making the best time for this port that foggy conditions along the Atlantic shore line would permit.

Speeding up the coast toward the rescue ship and hoping to get within wireless speaking distance of her before very many hours had passed were scout cruisers Salem and Chester, ordered by the government at Washington to make all possible haste in their allotted task in breaking the seal of silence which so far has kept the survivors on the Carpathia from making known to the outside world the thrilling story of the Titanic's last hours afloat, and the momentous happenings after she had taken her two-mile plunge to the bottom, off the banks of Newfoundland early Monday morning.

From the Chester at an early hour, this message came:

"Expect to be up with Carpathia within three or four hours."

While the scout cruiser's expectations on this point were not realized, there seemed to be every prospect that through the machinery which the government has set in motion definite word from the Cunarder might be secured within a reasonably short time.

That more than 1,300 persons, passengers and crew, had gone down with the giant liner was the belief that grew into almost a positive conviction as hour after hour passed. Other sources of possible rescue were eliminated and practically the only hope that remained to friends or relatives of the Titanic's passengers was that those sought after all be found upon the Carpathia, when that vessel was able fully to give up the secret she had held since the hour early Monday, when she picked up the floating remnants of the Titanic's cargo of nearly 2,200 souls.

Latest revised figures show that 1,312 persons probably perished when the Titanic went down. Of the 868 known survivors the names of 328 have been laboriously transmitted through the powerful wireless apparatus of the Olympic, the Titanic's sister ship, from the Carpathia to the shore. Besides these, it is estimated that appoximately 140 members of the crew were saved, their presence to man the lifeboats being required to insure the safety of the passengers.

An estimate of 490 steerage passengers saved completes the total of 868 which the Carpathia has made known she has on board. As the lists indicate, the great majority of these are undoubtedly women. The names of only 79 men rescued have been given, whereas the names of 249 women appear in the tabulations. Of the 490 steerage passengers thought to be saved, it is believed nearly all were women. The men among the passengers seemed largely determined to die that the women and children might be saved.

Little hope was entertained today that fishing schooner Dorothy Bair, which was passed in the vicinity of the Titanic disaster shortly after it occurred by the freighter Etonian of the Phoenix line, had rescued any of the liner's passengers.

Officials of the White Star line remained at their offices during the night trying to obtain additional names to the lists of survivors, but efforts to reach the Carpathia by wireless came to nothing. No new names have been added to the list of saved since yesterday, when wireless communication with the Carpathia ceased, because the Cunarder had steamed out of her zone of land communication.

The anxious throng of relatives and friends of passengers of the Titanic faced another day of heartbreaking uncertainty as they gathered in additional numbers at the White Star line offices this morning. All through the night groups of people waited in the company's rooms and about the sidewalk in front of the building for additional names to the list of known survivors.

The names of Colonel John Jacob Astor, Isador Straus, the millionaire merchant; George B. Widener of Philadelphia, Major Archibald Butt, aide to President Taft; Francis D. Millet, the American artist; William T. Stead, the London journalist; Benjamin Guggenheim, and Colonel and Mrs. Washington Roebling are among the most prominent names missing from the list of those known to be saved.

President Taft instructed the company to notify him immediately when-

SYMPATHY FOR THE TITANIC VICTIMS.

Senate Passes Resolution Under Rule Suspension.

Appropriation for Stone Bridge, and Beach Building Purchase Approved.

[Special despatch to The News.]

PROVIDENCE, April 17.—The rules of the senate were suspended today, while a resolution expressing the profound sympathy of the General Assembly for the relatives and friends of those who were lost on the Titanic was introduced and passed. The senate also passed a resolution submitting the question of holding a constitutional convention to the people and a resolution providing for a commission to revise the constitution. Senators Head of Jamestown and Peckham of Middletown both voted against the two resolutions. A bill was introduced to provide for a board walk at Narragansett Pier; also, a resolution to appropriate $70,000 for the reconstruction of Stone Bridge, $25,000 of which shall be available this year. The house approved the act allowing the city of Newport to hire money to pay for the beach buildings.

The senate concurred with the house in the passage of the amendment to the charter of the Island Cemetery Company of Newport, the passage of the act for the relief of honorably discharged soldiers, sailors and marines of the state who served in the war with Spain; the amendment to the highway act providing for the care of bridges on state highways, the act providing punishment for making use of false statements to obtain property or credit, the act providing that towns and cities shall provide for treatment of persons suspected of being affected with rabies or hydrophobia, and the act allowing Bristol to erect a soldiers and sailors monument.

In the house the committee on accounts and claims reported favorably the claim of J. L. Corbett, who was imprisoned on a charge of murder and afterwards freed by the verdict of a jury. He asked for $800 to make good his loss of time.

A resolution was introduced to provide for the proper representation of the state at the Panama-Pacific exposition. It provides for a trip for some one and was referred to the finance committee.

The house passed the act authorizing the city of Newport to hire $30,000 for the payment for the buildings at Easton's beach.

The house committee on special legislation is holding a big hearing on the question of woman suffrage in this state.

UPHELD BY SUPREME COURT.

Constitutionality of the Metropolitan Park Commission Questioned.

PROVIDENCE, April 17.—The constitutionality of the Metropolitan Park Commission of this state was upheld by the supreme court in an opinion rendered to Governor Pothier today. The commission was created by the legislature in 1909, and at this session the constitutionality of the act and the work of the commission was questioned.

POWERS TRYING TO END WAR.

Move to Bring About Mediation Between Turkey and Italy.

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 16.—The representatives of the foreign powers took the first step to endeavor to bring about mediation between Turkey and Italy today, when an identical note was presented to the Turkish foreign minister, Assim Bey, at his private residence.

The substance of the communication is that, having ascertained the Italian conditions of peace, the powers desire to know Turkey's terms. Assim Bey asked for time to formulate his reply, which is practically certain to be that Turkey declines to enter into negotiations on the basis of the Italian pretensions.

3,500 SACKS OF MAIL LOST.

About 7,000,000 Letters Believed Gone with the Titanic.

NEW YORK, April 16.—Postmaster Edward M. Morgan stated today that White Star liner Titanic had on board 3,423 sacks of mail. It is not likely, he said, that the mails were saved. As the standard ocean mail bag holds about 2,000 letters, it is estimated that in all about 7,000,000 pieces of mail matter have been lost.

About 200 bags contained registered matter. Postmaster Morgan said that these sacks contained on an average about 3,000 letters each. He estimated that approximately 1,600,000 registered letters and packages had gone to the bottom.

APRIL MEETING IN PORTSMOUTH.

General Discussion on Farming and the School Question at Newport County Pomona Grange.

The Newport County Pomona Grange held its April meeting Tuesday at Fair hall, Portsmouth Worthy Master Helen A. Wilcox of Tiverton presiding. Four of the six county Granges were represented, also Central and Kickemuit Granges. Reports of the various Granges showed them to be in good condition, with a general increase in new members.

Joseph A. Peckham, Master of Aquidneck Grange, Middletown, was installed as treasurer by Providence County Deputy Amos F. Maker, assisted by Lady Assistant Steward, Miss Eliza M. Peckham, having been previously absent and unable to take his position owing to business engagements.

The morning session terminated at noon and the members adjourned to the dining hall for a basket lunch, coffee being served by Worthy Master and Mrs. Warren R. Sherman of Portsmouth Grange.

The second session opened at 1:30 and the meeting was placed in the hands of the worthy lecturer, Mrs. William M. Hughes, who opened with the question: "What have I done the past year to help the Grange?" which was answered by the roll-call. The answers were somewhat similar and included statements of regular attendance, continual attempt to interest others and extend the order, willingness to assist at all times, and giving the best whenever present. In addition to the replies nearly every one gave a short reading. These included "humorous pubbits," articles on "Farmers as business men," the building of a road across Ohio by 1,000 men in an hour's time, suggestions on "How to get rich," a poem, "The Farmer's Elegy," "The Fresh Air Family;" poem, "The Faithful Few;" restoring the apparent dead by means of oxygen and the pulmotor, clever hits entitled "Merely Human," and "Old Songs."

A general discussion followed, led by Mr. F. Lincoln Sherman, as to why farmers in this section are not making as good headway as in the South and West. They are as intelligent and hard-working but do not seem to possess the shrewdness characterizing the traders of the South, who are also on the lookout for new inventions, early crops and everything modern and up-to-date. In the East they are apparently content to spend as they earn; in the West they work for the money in it. In Maine they are inclined to be more economical and not spend as hand by this means are going ahead faster.

The discussion gradually led to business interests and to the buying and planting of potatoes and the high price of seed potatoes this year, from $1.75 to $2.50 a bushel as compared with 35 and 55 cents a year or two ago. This is thought to be owing to last year's drought. Farming is largely a speculation. There is never any doubt about what is to be done at planting time—the extensive work needed on the land, fertilizer, seed, farm help—but when the crops are due they may turn out well or ill and the prices are always uncertain, a good market lasting but one or a few days before the prices fall. Prices of potatoes have fallen from $4.50 and $5 a barrel to $1.50 a barrel in three and four days.

Farmers were warned against planting foreign potatoes, which are found to contain diseases which are unknown here. Importations of Scotch potatoes are found to contain a brown rot under the skin. Potatoes are also coming from England and Ireland, and from Germany.

Attention was called to the Corn show in the fall. While this contest was for the children last year, adults are to be included this year, with a more extensive list of prizes.

The school question was generally discussed, members from the Tiverton and Middletown school committees being present; also the Middletown special committee. The superintendent of schools in Tiverton, Mrs. Helen A. Wilcox, said the town is very near to the school committee, aiding and encouraging in every way possible. A recent appropriation had been granted to build a new building. The committee consists of three women. It was stated by one of the deputies present that "when the women have an equal vote with the men the school question will be settled."

Among the speakers were Joseph A. Peckham, Amos F. Maker and his sister, from Warren; I. Lincoln Sherman, Mrs. Wilcox and Mrs. Peckham. General Deputy Richard M. Bowen of Providence was present at the morning session, and made remarks for the good of the order. Three guests were present from Kickemuit Grange, Warren, and an invitation was extended Newport County Pomona to attend the Providence County Pomona, May 1 at Lime Rock Grange, Wilbor's Crossing.

PERSONALS.

....The Norwegian Storthing has unanimously granted 136,365 krone (approximately $35,000) for Amundsen's North Pole expedition.

.... L. E. McLoughlin of the international committee of the Young Men's Christian Association has received advices from China that C. T. Wang, who graduated from Yale in 1909 and is an earnest supporter of the Young Men's Christian Association, will be selected as minister to the United States.

....John D. Rockefeller has contributed $500 to the fund to defray the expenses of the American athletes to the Olympic games, according to the announcement made by F. O. Brown, chairman of the Chicago finance committee of the Olympic games. The games are to be held in Stockholm in July.

....Dr. Louis Nelson, a young physician of Boston, who had been winning a name for himself by his researches in bacteriology, died at the Eliot Hospital as the result of his experiments. Dr. Nelson, for the past year an instructor at the Harvard Medical School, had for six months been making a study of the recently discovered "gas bacilli" which are believed to generate the gases in the human system. While engaged in his laboratory experiments he became inoculated by these bacilli some eight weeks ago and had grown steadily worse. He was taken to the Eliot Hospital and an operation was planned, but it was found the bacilli had produced intestinal inflammation too severe to permit of this attempt to save his life.

....Rev. Dr. Charles Gordon Ames, pastor of the Church of the Disciples, Boston, and one of the best-known clergymen in the Unitarian denomination, is dead, at the age of 84 years. He had been in poor health for nearly two years, and death was due to a general breakdown. Dr. Ames was born in Dorchester, but early in life went to Canterbury, N. H., where he received his early education. He received the degree of doctor of divinity from Bates College in 1896. His first ministerial work was in the Baptist denomination and his most notable work with that society was the forming of the Free Baptist Church of Minneapolis. He became a Unitarian minister in 1859 and preached in a number of places before going to Boston 23 years ago. He succeeded Rev. Dr. James Freeman Clark as pastor of the Church of the Disciples.

BREAKING OUT COVERED BODY
"Three years ago this winter I had a breaking out that covered my whole body. It itched so it seemed as if I should go crazy. It first came out in little pimples on my back and spread till it covered my whole body and broke down to my knees, also my arms down to my elbows. When I scratched, it made sores, and the terrible itching and burning kept me from sleeping. I tried several remedies all to no purpose. Then I concluded to try the Cuticura Remedies. I used the Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment, also the Resolvent, and they completely cured me of eczema. I have had no return of the disease since. I never had a good night's rest after the skin eruption first broke out till I commenced using the Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I had only used them a few days before I could see they were beginning to heal, and the terrible itching was gone. I never take a bath without using the Cuticura Soap, and I do not believe there are better remedies for any skin disease than the Cuticura Soap and Ointment." (Signed) Miss Sarah Calkins, Washington, Ill., Mar. 16, 1911. Cuticura Soap and Ointment are for sale everywhere. The world, but to those who have suffered much and long, and are without faith in any treatment, a liberal sample of each, together with 32-p. booklet on the skin and scalp will be mailed free, on application. Coal in Winter - Gas in Summer
Crawford Ranges

You need a coal range in Winter for kitchen warmth and for continuous hot water supply, but in Summer when you want a cool kitchen and less hot water a Gas range is the thing. You get both in the Crawford Combination Range and you get the best of each.

The Crawford Gas Ovens are safe; explosions are impossible. No dangerous pilot light; the oven door has to open before gas can be lighted and the Damper opens automatically with the oven door. In the End Ovens there is an extra set of burners at the top for broiling, which save the cook much stooping.

No coal range equals the Crawford with its money and labor saving improvements;—Single Damper (patented)—Scientific Oven heating flues—Ash Hod (patented), etc.

EXPLAINING THEIR IDEAS.

plauded by those present. He said the Association had been formed, not to see how much could be made but what could be done to benefit the city of Newport. It was the intention of those forming the Association to make this the "quality" beach of the East; to have quality in every detail, especially in the food, ice cream, soda, etc. served; to see that every sanitary arrangement is made for the safety of every patron.

The bathing suits are to be of the best quality and the most improved sterilizing apparatus is to be secured for their care. The suits would cost about $4,500. It is proposed to have towels, not little napkins, and to make the place one to give so much pleasure to those who bathe that they will wish to go again.

In regard to the clambake, the idea is not to make money from the dinner but to put everything on the table for Newporters and strangers, and to enlarge this department so that it could accommodate 2,000 people to be served at one time.

It is proposed to have the best music obtainable, one of the big bands if possible, and have the music distributed as the demands seemed to require. The Oriental tea room is something that is coming in; tea is served in an Oriental room by waiters dressed in Japanese costume.

It is proposed to have a dancing pavilion. A man would be sent to examine the leading dancing pavilions in the east, learn what they are doing and how they conduct business, with all the arrangements, before any move is made in this line. If the dancing pavilion is erected Newport will have something of which to be proud.

The children's zoo is to be a place for the amusement of children, with representations of all sorts of animals, on which the children may climb and play. There are to be two musical clowns to play for and amuse the children, so that the little ones will wish their parents to take them again to the Newport beach.

No special attention has been paid to Newporters at the beach. It is proposed to have sufficient umbrellas, tents, chairs and rockers to accommodate those who wish to go to the beach and enjoy the air and the scene. Arrangements would be made so that Newporters could quickly be accommodated with suits. Boys will be in attendance to carry anything needed to those sitting about, preventing a crowd at the lunch, ice cream or soda counters. The beach will be kept clean of seaweed and clams.

It is proposed to have an entrance to the dining room from the road, for automobile parties, and to have it laid out by a proper landscape man, to look attractive, so that the first and last view will be pleasing. Also, to have plenty of parking space for automobiles and a small garage, where material needed can be had.

The most important thing is the advertising man, who will be provided with literature regarding the beach and Newport, have pictures and with the co-operation of the real estate men pictures of cottages and of possible rental prices, and see organizations, societies, Sunday Schools and churches and urge the attractions which Newport and the beach offer for their annual outings. Also, if possible, to make arrangements for rides about the drives, so that the drivers would derive a benefit.

The place will be such that every one who comes will desire to come again. Everything will be clean and that is desired by those interested in the best welfare of Newport. No liquor will be allowed and nothing which could be in any way objectionable.

Alderman Hughes: It seems to have been forgotten to say anything about the prospective prices to be charged for bathing privileges. In the past it has been half a dollar at one section and a quarter at the other.

Mayor Boyle interrogated the several bidders as to their intentions as to prices. Mr. McGowan said his company had not talked over that part of the problem. The company is to spend $[illegible] on buildings and the kitchen will cost $5,000 to prepare and equip. Mr. Gifford said the bathing prices had been given no consideration. Mr. Burdick and Kirby made like replies.

Mayor Boyle: Have you made a rough estimate of what the first cost of preparing for business will be?

Mr. McGowan: Probably $25,000 and $[illegible]000 more for equipment. Our company has to date $21,325 subscribed.

F. F. Nolan said he did not appear [illegible] retained, but voluntarily, as a subscriber to the new company. He desired to give his own opinion. He said the proposition should not be judged from the point of the highest price in money to be paid the city, but from the point of what is best for the entire community. His company had [illegible] what it considered to be a fair rental based on the cost to the city of $[illegible] or $60,000, which it must expend in taking over the beach. The company, while making the proposition to spend a certain amount in five years on new buildings, did not bind itself down to that length of time to make the improvements as it is [illegible] purpose to develop the beach and make it famous as soon as possible.

Mr. Nolan suggested that notice should be taken of the criticism of the management of the beach in the [illegible] also of the statement of the president of the old association when it said that it did not care to renew the lease, for there had been no profits [illegible] the Association. He called attention to the severe criticism for some [illegible] made by the citizens of Newport because of the bathing conditions and the service at the restaurant. The old association now asks $23,000 for the buildings; our plan is to have all revert to the city at the end of the [illegible] and save a repetition of the present predicament. We propose to keep the plant in thorough repair, and that is a material item to take into consideration, for the repair item on such an outfit is of no mean consequence.

He said he believed that if there was a proposition which met the general approval of the citizens it is the one they had put in, and it has the endorsement of the press. People say it is for the best interests of the city and their general [illegible]; it is for the good of future generations. The beach has been sadly [illegible] in the past.

Do the other bidders propose to enlarge the restaurant facilities? No. A [illegible]-sized gathering cannot be accommodated. They propose to sublet. The Newport Beach Association [illegible] to conduct it itself and to be responsible for all on the beach, [illegible] will be impossible if the various [illegible] are let out separately. We [illegible] to have proper attractions to make the beach the most popular resort in New England. He said the board should take these matters into consideration, for he believed that if the matter were to be submitted to the people they would give hearty approval to awarding the [illegible] to the new company.

Mayor Boyle asked if any of the bidders for concessions had ideas to suggest. The board wised to receive all the ideas it could, and probably they were acquainted with the workings of the beach.

Charles A. Hayward, who bid for the lunch and restaurant, said he had been four years at the lunch department and that is what he personally desired; he had bid on the restaurant because he wished the lunch counter, and would sub-let to some suitable person. He could not handle the restaurant himself.

Joseph H. Negus was called upon. He had the restaurant and lunch counter at the beach, but said he had nothing to say.

William M. Borden, who bid on the merry-go-round, did not care to speak.

John P. Sullivan bid on the merry-go-round and air drome. He said he did not see where separate concessionists came in, as the talk of the evening tended. He could see where there would be trouble over the policing of the beach with the separate concessionists. He just put in a bid to be in the running if there was any chance for separate concessions. He said Williams desired a building arranged for his machine. He build his walls, erect the stage and fit it up for the amusements within.

C. D. Dadley and Harry Jaffe did not respond when called on.

Mayor Boyle said that a suggestion from any one was welcome and he would call on some if they did not volunteer.

Senator Murphy was the first, but thought others had covered what he might say. Thomas H. Connolly was asked to speak. He had a cold but responded saying the general consensus of opinion was favorable to the Newport Beach Association. It seemed to be self-evident that it had the plan to do something for the credit of the city. Not a single subscriber is contributing with the expectation of reaping a material dividend. The increasing of the popularity of the beach would mean an increase of the revenue of the business man, and their patriotism had prompted them to contribute to the fund for the general good. The Association has had at its head the man on whom glory is reflected from the success of the battleship fleet clambake, a man who has proved his ability to handle big things, and who with his energy and executive ability could push the beach proposition to a success for the whole city on the noble lines proposed. The company has been capitalized by the pulse of the community; hence if there are omissions or faults in the management it will promptly come home to the stockholders, who will be able to reach the head and demand immediate correction. If the lease is awarded to the company the beach will increase in popularity and grow for the good of the community.

Mr. MacLeod said he could add but little to what his partner, Mr. Burdick, had said. His association had been formed to make a bid for the lease which would give the beach to a Newport company, which would look after the best interests of the city and not try to make money. There had been rumors that the price offered by the Newport Beach Association would be so low and so many would come from out of town that it would be a case of giving the lease to an out-of-town man or giving it to a very low bid, which would not look well to the citizens. The association had offered a bid considered sufficiently high to meet the bids of men from away and to be considered in a financial way.

The best offer of the Newport Association was $25,000 in rental and $25,000 in buildings for 10 years. His association offered $35,000 in rental for 10 years. This will make some impression on citizens who might consider the matter of taxes and the city's making something out of the beach. The association must make such improvements as the business demands and would have the interests of the city at heart and do what is right as things developed. Perhaps they have not the experience of the other men, but they are open to advice and will do what is right.

A. Cascambas, J. H. Wetherell and J. A. Allan had nothing to add to what had been said.

E. W. Higbee said he was not interested financially in any of the bids. It seemed to him that it would be advantageous to the city to lease the beach as a whole rather than in sections and have one contractor responsible. There have been many complaints of the manner in which the beach has been run and in his opinion the citizens are more interested in having it so run as to be a safe and attractive place for themselves and strangers than to have it run to make money; he thought the taxpayers would hold that view. He liked the ideas suggested by Mr. McGowan and believed the members of that association had the right interest in the improvement of the beach; also, that Messrs. Burdick & MacLeod's associates had the same right ideas.

Assistant State Factory Inspector G. W. Ritchie said he is a prospective stockholder of the company, because he believes it to be a proper proposition. As an alderman he had knowledge of the difficulties of settling the problem of award of the lease of the beach 10 years ago. He desired to call attention to the question of the price to be paid for the lease, which he said is not a serious consideration. It is the running of the beach and its improvement which should be considered paramount. If the beach is really improved it will help the citizens pay their taxes by bringing more money into the city. He disclaimed all expectations of making a profit on his investment. It may pay four or five per cent, but the rest will go to improvements and amusements, as there is no intention to exploit the beach for the benefit of the association and this should be prevented.

M. A. Russo thought he had nothing to add. Mr. Negus was again called upon but declined to speak.

Mayor Boyle said he had come to listen but had done considerable talking trying to persuade others to talk. If there were no others who cared to speak he would call the hearing closed. He was thankful, on behalf of the board, for the ideas given and believed they would be of benefit to the board in arriving at a just and proper decision as to what is the best course to take. The hearing was then closed.

The Board will take up the matter again at its regular meeting Thursday evening.

HOW TO PACK EGGS.

[Farm and Home.]

A clean stone jar holding six to 10 gallons is the best vessel for packing down eggs for family use, but a tight wooden firkin or other vessel will answer very well. The eggs must be clean and fresh. Dirty shells and cracked or spoiled eggs will injure and possibly spoil the entire lot.

Place the eggs in the jar as they are gathered and cover with a solution of water glass (silicate of soda) one part to 10 or 15 parts of water. Cover the jar to prevent evaporation. Water glass is an amber colored liquid which can be procured of druggists or dealers in poultry supplies. It costs about 25 cents per quart, or less by the gallon.

Pure water should be used, rain water if you can get it. The jar should be placed in a cool cellar or room where it will not freeze in winter. Eggs preserved in this will keep in good condition eight or nine months.

HYPSIPYLE.

[Maurice Hewlett, in the Forum.]

Remember'd joy! Ah, stormy nights,
O, the mad revel when wind fights
With wind, and slantwise comes the rain
And shatters at the window-pane
To wake the hind, who little knows
Whose fingers drum those passionate blows,
Nor what swift indwellers of air
Ye be who hide in forms so fair
Your wayward motions, cruel to us,
While lovely and dispiteous!
Ah, nights of flying scud and rout
When scared the slim young moon rides out
In her lagoon of open sky,
Or, older, marks your revelry
As calm and large she soars above
Your drifting lives of ruth or love.
Boon were those nights of dusted gold
And glint of fireflies! Boon the cold
And witching frost! All's one, all's one
To thee, whose nights and days go on
Now in one span of changeless dusk
On one earth crackling like the husk
Of the drops mast in winter wood;
Remember'd joy—'tis all thy food,
Hypsipyle, to whose fond sprite
I vow my praise while I have light.

A RADICAL CHANGE.

Recruits to Have Real Training for Sea Duty in Service on the Reserve Fleet.

Consideration is being given by the Navy Department to a radical change in the training of recruits. These, hereafter, will probably receive two months training at the training stations and will then serve two months on the Atlantic reserve fleet before they are sent to sea on vessels in regular commission.

At the training stations special attention will be given to physical condition. Real work of training for sea duty will begin with the service on the reserve fleet, where an extra number of petty officers will be provided as assistant instructors.

ROOSEVELT AND THE DEMOCRATS.

One of the most interesting questions now raised is what effect the nomination of Roosevelt would have on the Democratic convention. Harmon's Ohio friends are already sending advice to Democrats everywhere to do anything in their power to promote the nomination of the ex-President. The theory of this is that if the Republicans should nominate their most radical candidate the Democrats would make a bid for the conservative elements of both parties by nominating their most conservative man, the governor of Ohio.

That would be a logical thing to do, but is a political convention, in a state of the utmost heat and excitement, likely to do the logical thing? The other course, and the one which the Baltimore gathering would be at least as likely to pursue, would be to try to outbid the Republicans for the radical or discontented or populistic vote; if Roosevelt should be nominated in Chicago, to reply the following week by nominating William Jennings Bryan or at least Champ Clark, at Baltimore.

If the two candidates should be Roosevelt and Bryan the voters would have no choice except between a Republican radical and a Democratic radical: a radical of 20 years and one who only within the past half dozen years has donned his radical clothes. In such a situation a third candidate, representing the conservatism of both parties, would probably be run, but would almost certainly be defeated by one or the other of the nominees of the old parties.

On the other hand, if Roosevelt and Harmon should be the two candidates the Bryan element of the Democratic party would vote for Roosevelt and the conservative elements of the Republican party would support Harmon. Thus we might have that new alignment of parties which has been impending since the close of the reconstruction era but has never yet come, though in recent years there has been a good deal of breaking away from both the old parties. But what a campaign we should have if the candidates were William Jennings Bryan and Theodore Roosevelt!

CONSERVING FARMS AND WATER POWER.

It is interesting to note from the report of the State Conservation Commission recently sent to the legislature that this body has been instrumental in bringing about the sale of a considerable number of farms which have heretofore been rated among vacant if not deserted agricultural estates. The exact number of these it is naturally impossible to state, as the sales of course have not been made directly by the commission but simply through its effort in bringing the fact that they were on the market to the attention of possible purchasers. The method employed to accomplish this result has been to tabulate information concerning available farms, issue it in printed form and distribute it as deemed best. Those who have bought farms as a result of this effort were located chiefly in this state and in the middle West though many different parts of the country were represented among the purchasers.

This is a valuable work which is being done by the commission. It may not appear to be important and is not very spectacular, but is well worth while and will mean much to the state, by increasing the taxable property and building up communities which may have become run down to some extent by the abandonment of farms or the large amount of vacant property of the agricultural class. There is need of all the produce which can be raised on all the farms in the state and it is a distinct gain to have these estates occupied and under cultivation. The value of farm lands in Rhode Island, because of their fertility and proximity to good markets, has been dwelt upon by those well informed on such matters repeatedly of late. It is a source of satisfaction, therefore, and a means of development of the state's resources, to have vacant farms put under cultivation and made to contribute to the needs of the people. The conservation commission is justifying its creation and doing a good work along an important line.

The commission also does a valuable service in calling attention to the fact that, while the water resources of the state are large and more extensively utilized than in any other section of the country, about one half the effective amount in the streams goes to waste because it is not properly conserved. This is a statement which ought to make those associated with corporations which seek power, those accustomed to engage in speculative enterprises, or those who can appreciate the great field which lies in this state in this respect, take some step to change this situation and bring into use the water now wasted for lack of application as a motive power. In these days of talk and tremendous plans and projects to accomplish the conservation of natural resources it is interesting to know that within the borders of this state there is so extensive a resource which is not being utilized and that so much power is permitted to run to waste for want of development.

Capitalists might well heed this suggestion and seek to make useful this great resource which is not now contributing to the benefit of the state in any form. The great value of this wasted power is amply evident from the gain which has accrued from the use of half the possible power in its application to industrial enterprises. That the other half can easily be made to serve similar purposes is not a matter of doubt, for it is just as available and can be turned to useful purposes as easily. There is a big field open here for capital, in extending industrial plants and utilizing the water power running to waste, by the creation of electric power or in other ways making economic use of nature's gift to man, to be devoted to the development of the resources of the state. The commission has done well to bring to the attention of the public the great opportunity for the application of the water resources of the state not yet utilized for commercial purposes.

BRYAN AT HIS OLD TRICKS.

Eight years ago Bryan was not nominated and did everything in his power to make sure that where he had failed twice no other Democrat should succeed. He fought Judge Parker as a "gold bug" until the nomination, alienating a great part of the silverite Democrats from him; then he turned and supported him, which disgusted a great part of the gold Democrats, who concluded that if the judge were bad enough for Bryan he was not good enough for them, and turned away from the party.

Four years ago Bryan was once more the candidate and, determined to secure the vote of the entire party if he could gave out that silverism was a dead issue. He retracted nothing which he had ever said, but the old issues were out of date and a new day had brought new ones.

If silverism was a dead issue four years ago it ought to be still deader now, but Bryan has resurrected it. This time there is no indication that he will be nominated, and the issue which he said was dead when he desired the vote of the united Democratic party he now revives in order to prevent the success of a man obnoxious to him because the representative of opposing political tendencies. Champ Clark is a thorough-paced Bryan man and Woodrow Wilson has been doing all in his power since his Presidential ambitions were awakened to conciliate Bryanism, and Bryan looks favorably on both. Judson Harmon was a member of the second Cleveland cabinet and represents the conservative element in the Democracy, and Bryan has never concealed his determination to prevent his nomination if possible.

He has just been attacking Governor Harmon for complicity in the bond issues made by the Cleveland administration to sustain the gold standard. This is a specific revival of silverism and an effort to proscribe a Democrat for the crime of being a Cleveland man. The contract with J. P. Morgan & Co. to supply the treasury with gold was made before Harmon entered the cabinet and that is his reply to the specific charge. The general fact is that Bryan is fighting him because he was identified with Cleveland and the sound-money Democracy, and all the conservatism which remains in the Democratic party.

The gold-standard Democrats are pretty generally willing to drop a dead issue and try to re-unite the party on the issues of the present day. Bryan, twice defeated, is still hungry for revenge and determined that no Democrat shall succeed where he has failed. The question before the party is whether it will any longer permit William Jennings Bryan to steer it to defeat.

The more that is known of the Titanic disaster, the more it becomes evident that the appalling loss of life was due in a large measure to the inadequate equipment of the vessel with lifeboats and rafts for the number of passengers and crew carried. In fact, this equipment was so meagre that it was not sufficient properly to care for one half of the persons on board. It is said, however, that the owners of the Titanic were complying fully with British Admiralty regulations, though it is conceded that these are obsolete and were formed only to provide for vessels of 10,000 tons. The company undoubtedly relied upon the supposedly unsinkable character of the boat and minimized the dangers of a wreck.

In the avalanche which overcame the Republican machine leaders in Pennsylvania Congressman John Dalzell was defeated by M. Clyde Kelly, a newspaper man who is known as a pronounced Progressive and a political fighter of no mean ability. Dalzell is one of the oldest members of the House, a member of the rules committee and a determined advocate for many years of the protective tariff.

Colonel Roosevelt tells an Iowa audience that he never says anything on the stump which he does not carry out off the stump. If he attempts to do all which he has said on the stump he would do, he will be a busy man. Probably Colonel Roosevelt has forgotten some things he has said.

Homer Folks, secretary of the New York State Charities Aid Association, advocates paying physicians and nurses out of public money, "to keep us well, as we pay school teachers out of public money to make us wise."

The Massachusetts senate has adopted a resolution favoring the election of United States Senators by the people. Only two votes were recorded against the bill.

Even so good a General Assembly as the present is not able to complete its business and adjourn on time. A bad habit is sometimes inherited.

THE TRAGEDY OF THE TITANIC.

[New York Tribune.]

What at first appeared to be a fortunate escape for the steamship Titanic, but now proves to have been one of the most appalling catastrophes in the history of navigation, is a tragical reminder of the limitations with which man is still hampered in dealing with the elemental forces of nature. A generation ago a great ocean liner won a more than nine days' attention by ramming an iceberg and coming into port under her own power, with her stem a wreck. In those days electrical science was still scarcely out of its infancy, and numerous devices which are now in common use had not been dreamed of. Since that time methods of detecting afar off the approach of floating ice at sea have been invented. Presumably the Titanic was equipped with every known device of value for assuring the safety of a vessel worth $10,000,000, a costly cargo and two thousand human lives. That her captain was vigilant is undoubted. Yet on her very first trip across the ocean this latest and greatest specimen of the shipbuilder's art smashes into an iceberg just as helplessly as did her predecessor a generation ago, and with the appalling result of more than a thousand lives lost.

In one respect, however, the years have seen a marvellous gain. It is now more than three years since the airborne cry of the Republic flickered through the Nantucket fogs and summoned help, and in that time the "C Q D" has become familiar and the use of wireless telegraphy at sea a commonplace. The signals from the Titanic found a quick response, but the distance was too great. Yet, even so, it is probable that the wireless summons saved hundreds of passengers.

Details of the disaster will be awaited with intense and painful interest. The rate of speed at which the ship was moving, the distance of the berg when it was discovered, the working of the safety bulkheads, and many other things will be of value in determining the extent to which improvement in elements of safety has kept pace with the increase in size, strength and speed of ships. The invasion of the sea lanes by floating fields and mountains of ice from the Arctic glaciers can never be prevented, and the security of vessels must depend upon improved methods of detecting the approach of the peril and of avoiding it, and, of course, of resisting the impact as well as possible when it cannot be averted.

Governor and Assembly Leaders Find Appropriations Well Within Resources.

Providence Republican Caucuses Elect Convention Delegates—Central Baptist Not to Sell.

Republican leaders in the Assembly and Governor Pothier have been keeping close watch of the appropriations to see that the state is not thrown into debt beyond its legal bounds, and it is stated that if all the appropriations passed or recommended are authorized there will be approximately $200,0000 left. This estimate includes several large appropriations only a part of which can be utilized this year, and, therefore, it is argued, there will be more than $200,000 in the treasury. Governor Pothier has secured figures from the heads of the finance committees, which show on their face that the total revenue this year will be approximately $3,026,000, and the total expenses so far recommended $3,002,000. The revenue, estimated under the old tax law, is given as about $2,650,000, and it is conservatively figured that the new tax law will increase that amount by $200,000. From the automobile department it is expected to receive $100,000. The state may borrow $250,000 in case of emergency to pay its bills. This gives the total estimated receipts as stated above. Already the Assembly has passed, or there has been reported for passage bills carrying $3,002,000. There are other measures which may be reported and recommended before the session adjourns, however, which will make that total larger. In view of the fact that there is a margin of about $200,000 now, however, the leaders who are keeping track of the finances do not feel uneasy about the outcome.

The Republicans of Providence Friday evening, at caucuses in each of the 25 Assembly districts, elected delegates to the state and Congressional district conventions which will be held April 24, for the election of delegates to the national convention at which the Prsidential candidacy will be determined. No contests developed in any of the districts, the slates drawn up by the ward committees being adopted without the slightest interference. It is stated that practically every delegate elected is a Taft man. Providence will have 51 delegates in the state convention, which will elect four national delegates and four alternates, all of whom are designated "at large." The city will have 28 delegates in the First Congressional district convention, 12 in the Second district and eight in the Third district. These three conventions will each elect two national delegates and two alternates.

The Central Baptist Society of Providence will not sell the church building on Weybosset street, voting not to accept the proposal made for the property. The society turned down an offer of $110,000 for the building and land, a part of which will be taken within a short time by the city in its street widening and extension plan for Empire street. Some time ago an offer was made for the property, the principal not being named by the agent who conducted the negotiations. The members of the church, not the society which controls the church, were favorably disposed toward selling the property at the figure offered, $110,000, and voted to request the incorporated body, the Central Baptist Society, to effect the sale. According to one of the society members, it was thought at first that the entire amount would be turned over to the organization at once, but after the payment of $10,000 as an option it was found that the society was expected to enter into an agreement with the prospective purchaser whereby the balance of the purchase price would be paid in two years. This did not prove satisfactory to the church members or the society and it was voted not to carry the negotiations further. A large part of the property is included in the plans for the widening and extension of Empire street. It is thought that the city will require about 6,000 square feet in carrying out the plan, and this will leave about 1,000 feet to the church society. Inasmuch as this strip of 4,000 feet will be located on the corner of the new thoroughfare, and will also have a frontage on Weybosset street, it will be a valuable real estate holding.

The funeral of Professor Horatio B. Knox of the State Normal School was held Tuesday afternoon in the chapel of the Central Congregational Church, Providence. The service was in charge of Rev. Frank E. Butler, assistant pastor, in the absence of Rev. Gaius Glenn Atkins, called away by the death of an aunt. Seats were reserved for the board of trustees and faculty of the Rhode Island State Normal School, where Professor Knox was a teacher; the board of directors of the Rhode Island Institute of Instruction and the board of directors of the Young Men's Christian Association. In addition many of the pupils of the Normal School were present, no classes being held during the day. The honorary bearers were deacons of the church and associates in educational work, as follows: Frederick H. French, Arthur W. Fairchild, James C. Kimball, Arthur W. Chaffin, Charles R. Makepeace Charles H. Lee, H. Edward Thurston and Walter E. Ranger. The body was taken to Farmington, N. H., this morning for burial.

A silver-mounted sword, hand engraved and showing its great age and the hardy use to which it was put in the Colonial days, more than two centuries ago, was one of the interesting exhibits at the cabinet of the Rhode Island Historical Society in Providence Tuesday evening. It is now the property of Mrs. W. J. McCaw, a lineal descendant of Colonel Benjamin Church, and was used by the latter in his conflicts with the Indians in this state during the King Philip war, so called. Other Colonial relics shown were a helmet used during the same period, together with the flags of King James and King Charles, the royal standard and the flag under which the colonists fought later during the American Revolution. Representative Roswell B. Burchard of Little Compton was the speaker of the evening, and his topic was "Benjamin Church, Soldier and Historian of King Philip's War."

Miss Mary Amelia Dresser of Woonsocket, formerly a nurse in the Rhode Island Hospital, and Arthur Lionel Patch, M. D., of Stoneham, Mass., who was an attending surgeon at the institution for two years, ending about five months ago, were married Tuesday by Rev. Dr. W. H. P. Faunce, President of Brown University. Dr. Patch is the son of Edgar L. Patch, a manufacturing chemist of Stoneham. He was a graduate of Brown University in the class of 1904 and subsequently was graduated from the Harvard Medical School. Shortly after receiving his degree of M. D. he went to the Rhode Island Hospital, and it was there that he met his bride-to-be. After the ceremony, Dr. and Mrs. Patch left for Maine on their wedding tour. From there they will go to Somerset, Vt., where Dr. Patch is physician and surgeon on a large construction job which has for an object the equalizing of the flow of the Deerfield river.

CAMPAIGN IN FULL SWING.

great work to be accomplished outside the church, preaching to the people on week-days, wherever they are found assembled. He had preached in all kinds of churches, but never to any audience in a church where he had half the response he has outside. There you talk to the people in their own language, without any of the frills necessary in church.

Professor Burgess conducted an institute on Bible study, and Rev. W. G. Sargent another on missions, in the ante-rooms in the basement of the Second Baptist Church.

At 3:20 in the Second Baptist Church the first "platform meeting" was held. Rev. Dr. McKeever presided and Rev. W. H. Bath offered the opening prayer. Mr. Leslie A. Peckham, organist of the church, was organist for the evening.

Mr. Sargent gave the first address on the every day question, "Does it pay?" as applied to missionary work. Nine tenths of the money given to missions is given by one tenth of the members. Dr. Denny says missions is a theological, not a financial, proposition. Nevertheless it is right to ask: Do missions pay financially? An Indian lumber merchant gave $100,000 to a mission near his work because it was worth it to him in making his men more efficient. An American authority says every new foreign mission slips a new belt on the wheels of home factories. Carpets, American stoves, pianos, are being bought in the once heathen lands. The missionary has even paved the way for the Standard Oil Company.

But does it pay the home church which contributes? Taken promiscuously, the reports show that it does; it actually puts money into the home treasury. It is no theory; facts prove that giving to missions also increases gifts for home expenses, even producing a surplus. There is plenty of money in the churches to finance the biggest missionary scheme if it can be reached, if men catch the vision, and realize their stewardship, the whole world can be evangelized in this generation. "Gentlemen, the thing works," declared Mr. Sargent.

Too long has the appeal of the church been to men on the easy task basis. A hard task, a heroic one, is the only one which will reach men. Those who do not think so are living on a lower plane. The message today is a simple one. Very little is said about "doctrine." In this Movement it is tabooed; it may not be mentioned. The union of service is the thing today. When the church is ready to carry out the full program of Christ it will be found that it pays.

Professor Burgess gave an address on "The Bible in Action." In opening he spoke of the beautiful horse in the fire station; so gentle, a real pet. He is admired, even loved; but you do not feel quite satisfied until you have seen him tearing through the streets, every muscle strained, rushing the apparatus to the place where it will do big work.

The Bible has not fulfilled its function when it has simply brought comfort to the individual. Christ cannot enrich our lives unless we go out to enrich the lives of others. Bible study is greatly needed, but its motive is to help others. It has its calm and serene influences, but it also has pictures of itself in action. Take the story of Josiah, or Nehemiah with the first great Sunday School at the "water gate." The Bible is the "sword of the Spirit." Jesus used it when tempted of the Devil. Peter at Pentecost also used it.

"Impression without expression is hurtful". Even prayer and Bible reading may be perverted. Only as religion goes through us and out of us can we be sure we have it.

How can a class study the book of Acts and not increase its missionary offering? How can one read the stories of Christ's pity for sinful women and not go out to fight the white slave traffic? The story of that bad boy Absalom, with poor home training, teaches a lesson to parents. Repression—"don't"—is not the rule for the Sabbath. It is "do"—do good. The sick, the lonely, are to be visited by the Bible class members on Sundays. They are going to help a fellow buy a wooden leg if he needs one. One has sent its teacher to be a missionary on the foreign field. One put a petition before the legislature; another said, "The saloon must go," and it had to go. Providence federation of classes is going into the "Big Brother Movement." It is delightful to meditate on the Bible, but it must have full, free, continuous expression in the life.

This morning at the Young Men's Christian Association the Workers' Conferences were resumed, opening with an address by Rev. John Bradford on "Community Enterprises and the Church's Relation to Them." No community enterprise of any note has been carried through without church co-operation. The speaker gave special attention to work suited to Newport. We have allowed our towns and cities to grow up like Topsey, with no scheme or plan, and Newport has no suitable place to be found which can be leased for a playground, while many homes have no proper yards. What is needed is a 50-year plan. The first thing a man sees here is a long row of saloons and a lot of tenement houses, and this is the impression a visitor carries away. At least, trees could be planted to hide the tenements. An expert should be brought here to prepare a plan to beautify the city and all should co-operate to carry it out.

Charitable work should be done by churches only in accord with the Charity Organization Society. Families in other cities draw help from two or three different churches. It has been found where tuberculosis is prevalent among the poor that they are suffering because they were hard drinkers and when attacked by disease were not physically strong enough to combat it. A program of civic effort along the lines suggested should begin by placing in office a higher stamp of city officials "I am not afraid to say," added the speaker, "that you need it here as bad as anywhere. When you pray 'Thy Kingdom come on earth,' it means in Newport, R. I., to you."

Another important phase of work in combating conditions found in Newport is the appointment of a public recreation and social service commission, made up of representative men and women, who are so big that when they set out to do a thing people will sit up and take notice, and there are enough of that kind in Newport. Some of the things for which such a commission would work are children's playgrounds, properly supervised dance halls, to offset those run for commercial purposes; the opening of schoolhouses evenings as social centres, and the supervision of moving picture shows. Much improvement could be secured by co-operation with the moving picture houses, in inducing them to exclude pictures which suggest crime to young boys, and introducing educational films. Lastly is the question of the social evil. Mothers and fathers are not always the most competent to instruct their children in these sex matters. We can't say that there is any particular way of doing it; we must utilize the various resources we have.

An interesting discussion followed, based on Mr. Bradford's remarks.

The consideration of the topic, "Conservation Plans for Newport and Vicinity," was led by Mr. Lewis E. Hawkins, in the course of which various suggestion for constructive work given by those present were placed on a blackboard under their proper headings.

At 12.05, at the men's regular meeting at the Colonial Theatre, Rev. F. I. Hanscom delivered a 20-minute address on "Who are You?" before an audience of 100 men. A feature of the meeting was the singing in the lobby before entering, a number doubtless being attracted by the music more than by the printed placards.

In his address Rev. Mr. Hanscom endeavored to show that our name is a matter of little consequence, for we are all children of God. Not only is every man who turns his back upon God a hungry man, but God is seeking every one of his children and will meet him more than half way. "You cannot live without God, and God cannot live without you." He referred to the story of the prodigal son, as an illustration of the man who tried to live without his father, and said the famine is sure to come in the life of every man who tries to live without God. The service closed with all standing to sing, "I need thee every hour."

ST. AUGUSTIN'S BENEFIT SOCIAL.

The South Newport Girls' Club gave a social in Realty hall Tuesday evening which was largely attended, the proceeds to be added to the building fund of St. Augustin's Church. The committee in charge consisted of Misses Mary Morris, Veva Smith, Greta Morris, Polly Murphy, Elizabeth Wilmarth and May Smith, and they had arranged an attractive decoration for the hall. American flags and white and yellow bunting were used in profusion and the stage, on which McCloskey's orchestra was located, was decorated with palms and potted plants. A feature was a large American flag in the centre of the hall, which when unfurled let down a shower of small flags, which were taken by the guests as souvenirs. There were 16 numbers on the program, including a serpentine and a leap year dance as features.

SAILING OF THE ALOHA.

Steam yacht Aloha was due to leave Sullivan's dock for New York at 1 o'clock, and has gone. There was a bustle on the dock and on board this morning, finishing loose ends. The new launch from Herreshoff's was received and hoisted on board and finally as 1 o'clock approached the last thing was done, the lines were cast off and at 1:40 the Aloha was going out past Fort Adams.

ELECTION AND INSTALLATION.

The annual meeting of Van Rensselaer Lodge of Perfection was held Tuesday evening in Masonic hall, when officers were elected for the year and were installed by Past Thrice Potent Master Robert S. Franklin, as follows:

Thrice Potent Master—Elbert A. Sisson.
Deputy Master—George C. Lawton.
Senior Warden—William Champion.
Junior Warden—Robert S. Burlingame.
Orator—Alexander J. MacIver.
Treasurer—William J. Easton.
Secretary—Herbert Bliss.
Master of Ceremonies—James H. Hampton.
Hospitaler—Charles Cowles.
Guard—J. Powell Cozzens.
Tyler—William H. Crandall.

After the election and installation a collation was served, including steamed clams, and a social session was held.

COAL TO GO TO THE MINES.

Orders Received to Close the Rhode Island Company's Local Sales Department.

Orders were received this morning to close the local sales department of the Rhode Island Coal Company and to ship the coal in the bins here to the mines. It will take several days to clear out the bins in the railroad yard, and during this time the orders which the company has in Newport will be filled, but after that it is predicted that it will be weeks before any more of the coal sold in Newport and perhaps a year before assorted sizes are available again. Mr. Crosby is therefore today seeing such of the company's regular subscribers as he can find time to reach and arranging to make deliveries which will tide them over the period which will withdraw all the Rhode Island product from Newport. The reason given for closing the sales department is that the mined coal at the workings is fast being exhausted and the coal here to a large extent will be required to keep the fires going at the mines for pumping and such work until conditions permit resumption.

A GOLDEN WEDDING.

Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Covell Entertain at Dinner and Reception—Poems and Gifts.

In honor of the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage Mr. and Mrs. William K. Covell entertained Tuesday evening at their home on Washington street. No formal invitations had been issued, but so many friends had been quietly asked that the spacious rooms on the lower floor were well filled with guests. These made a representative Newport gathering, including older and younger, relatives from Fall River, members of the Channing Memorial and First Methodist Churches and of the Children's Home, business associates and members of many of the older Newport families, long-time acquaintances of Mr. and Mrs. Covell.

The rooms were beautifully decorated with a wealth and great variety of flowers, in hall, reception and dining rooms. These included roses, pinks, azaleas and many others, not forgetting the lovely arbutus, typical of the spring season. Mr. and Mrs. Covell were assisted in receiving by their son, Mr. William W. Covell, and Mrs. Covell; refreshments were served in the dining room, and the entire reception was of an informal and delightful character.

On a side table in the front parlor, where they might easily have escaped notice by many, was a small collection of gifts. These included a silver loving cup, inscribed with the names of the employes of Mr. Covell's business establishment; a silver shield mounted on a mahogany tablet, similarly inscribed, from the men in the sheet metal department of the store; several of the original wedding gifts of 50 years ago, including a beautiful silver basin, and others sent by friends in honor of the anniversary.

While most of the guests were still present, and just before the time for departing, Dr. Charles A. Brackett, briefly recalling a golden wedding anniversary in which many Newporters participated some years since in the White Mountains, and a "poem" read on that occasion by one of those present Tuesday evening, introduced Mr. Henry C. Bacheller. The latter read what he said was not a poem, but simply a few lines in rhyme, wishing the couple every joy and happiness. Rev. William Safford Jones then read two poems by William Channing Gannett, "Golden Wedding" and "The Dear Togetherness," and Rev. Joseph Cooper spoke briefly, closing with a prayer.

The immediate family united in a dinner at 1 o'clock. The feature was the reading of a poem composed by one of the nieces, engrossed by another, and illustrated by a third. Following the dinner were songs by their grandson.

Among those present were the sister of the bride and the brother of the groom, both of whom stood up with them in '62. Several others of those present at the wedding were also at the reception. It is also worthy of note that the bride and groom are still living in the house on Farewell street where they started housekeeping.

Mr. and Mrs. Covell, who were married in Fall River 50 years ago Tuesday, have been residents of Newport since and are well known throughout the community. Mr. Covell is believed to be the oldest man now doing business on Thames street in this city.

ICE JAM IN THE KENNEBEC.

American Shoe Finding Company Forced to Shut Down.

BINGHAM, Maine, April 17.—The ice in the upper Kennebec river has broken up and today formed a jam from the Bingham and Concord bridge back to a point three miles above this town. The river overflowed the interval lands of Eben Hill and Clarence Andrews in Moscow, three miles above here.

Austin stream, which flows into the river here, overflowed the interval and caused the American Shoe Finding Company, which employs 75 hands, to shut down. The water entered the engine room and flowed over the first floor of the mill. The night crew of 30 men were obliged to use boats to reach dry land. The jam started during the forenoon and probably will go through. It is unlikely there will be serious damage.

About 50 people live on the lowland and were warned at 3 a. m. by Night Watchman William Carl and went to higher land for safety until the water recedes.

APPROPRIATION BILLS PUZZLE.

Adjournment Delayed by a Lack of Agreement in Conference.

Congress Will Still be in Session at Time of National Conventions—The Copyright Law.

[Washington correspondence of The News.]

WASHINGTON, April 16.—It seems that we have the old puzzle over again. The irresistible object seems to have come in contact with the immovable object. There has not as yet been a single one of the appropriation bills agreed to in conference. These bills must be passed before Congress adjourns, and so we see the utter futility of talk about adjournment before the national conventions.

The House reduced appropriations and in many instances passed important legislation in these bills. The Senate raised the appropriations and struck out the legislation. Both houses are equally insistent that they are right and intend to hold out; hence the example of the irresistible object colliding with the immovable object, which has been the puzzling question in many institutions of learning for years.

When an amended copyright law was passed in 1909 it was supposed that Congress had passed an act which would last for years, but the rapid progress along many lines seems to have made it necessary to change the law again. This time the moving picture people want more protection and release from the copyright restrictions which dramatic authors enforce. The moving picture people are using dramatic productions for their shows, and quite often they find that they are in need of some drama or book which is copyrighted. They want to have an opportunity to use such productions without the heavy penalties which are enforced under the present law. It will take a long time to again amend the copyright law.

Strong arguments have been made in the Senate for a more extensive circulation of the Congressional Record, that much abused publication of legislative proceedings. Much fun has been made of the Record, and some of our Congressional friends take it as a personal insult. The Record is all right if it would only publish what takes place without revision, without the inclusion of volumes of matter never uttered, but which some man desires to see in print.

The new proposition is that the Record should be furnished to all who want it at $2 per year, about 16 less than it costs to produce it. Complaint is made that unless some such course as this is pursued the people will never have any accurate idea of what really takes place in Congress. At present this wonderful publication has only a circulation of 28,000, mostly free.

During the discussion of the Record in the Senate Senator Bristow of Kansas was talking about the weight of the publication in the mails.

"I should like to ask the Senator from Kansas," interposed Senator Root, "if he appreciates how 'heavy' the Congressional Record really is?"

Uncle Joe Cannon did not think it was necessary to employ Indian police in Oklahoma in view of the fact that every Indian has been made a full fledged citizen. "I want to congratulate Oklahoma on its marvelous progress," he said. "It is unexampled, so far as I know, by the history of any other state. The men I have met representing that country are quite six, while anybody else is half a dozen."

It might not seem so, but there is a real advantage in being a Smith in the Senate these days. It's this way: There are five Smiths in the Senate. Naturally the name of Smith appears in the Senate proceedings with frequent regularity. Now, it doesn't matter much whether it is one Smith or another. The people who read the Record see Smith has been on hand, and he don't look very close to see whether it is one Smith or another. At least that is an explanation made by one of the famous family, and it seems almost reasonable.

Members of both Houses are doing their best to make happy homes throughout the country. Tons upon tons of printed speeches are going out to constituents in every state every day. Not only are bags filled with speeches made by the Senator and Representative, but he even packs away speeches made by some of his friends. Every corridor in the Capitol and office buildings bulges with mail bags stuffed with oratory in printed form. Masses of statistics and documents are also sent broadcast over the land. Then there is a very large amount of garden seed sent to agricultural communities.

If the constituents of Senators and Congressmen are not happy they are indeed a hard lot to please.

Arthur W. Dunn.

KEEP THE KIDNEYS WELL.

Health is Worth Saving, and Some Newport People Know How to Save It.

Many Newport people take their lives in their hands by neglecting the kidneys when they know these organs need help. Sick kidneys are responsible for a vast amount of suffering and ill health, but there is no need to suffer nor to remain in danger. Use Doan's Kidney Pills—a remedy that has cured thousands of kidney sufferers.

The following statement leaves no ground for doubt.

Mrs. Frank Sylvester, 18 Congregational St., Bristol, R. I., says: "I know that Doan's Kidney Pills are an excellent remedy and cannot recommend them too highly. For some time my back ached and I was subject to dizzy and nervous spells. My kidneys did not act properly and I felt miserable in every way. Hearing about Doan's Kidney Pills, I procured a box and began their use. They helped me at once and soon completely relieved me. Another member of my family has taken Doan's Kidney Pills for disordered kidneys and weak back and they brought satisfactory results in this instance."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

$5,000,000 IN DIAMONDS.

Steamer Titanic Also Carried a Large Amount in Bonds and Valuable Registered Mail.

The Titanic was insured at Lloyds for $5,000,000, according to advices from London, and it was said that the International Mercantile Marine Company also carried a surplus fund for insurance purposes which could be applied to the loss.

The cost of building the great liner has been estimated at $10,000,000, although Vice President Franklin of the White Star line insisted that her value was not over $5,000,000. The total monetary loss caused by the sinking of the ship, however, will, it is certain, run into many millions more, but the total amount cannot even be conjectured.

It is generally understood that the vessel has on board diamonds of great value and estimated as high as $5,000,000 and also a large amount of bonds. The amount of freight on board was comparatively small for the size of the ship, but amounted to 1,400 tons of case goods millinery, silks, linens and the like. According to a White Star official the value of this freight would not reach over $500,000. The Titanic carried 3,128 bags of mail of unknown value, which it is hardly likely was saved.

In addition to a valuable shipment of diamonds on board the Titanic, it is said that among almost priceless jewels carried by the passengers are pearls belonging to an American woman, valued at $600,000. The steamer also carried a large amount in bonds and a very valuable registered mail.

It is stated that the owners were unable to insure the Titanic to the full amount, because the British and European markets were not big enough to swallow the sum.

DAILY GAIN IN WEIGHT.

Comes to Those Who Use Samoa. Says Druggist Hall & Lyon Co.

The poor, pale, emaciated person when he or she becomes plump, rosy and robust by using Samoa, forgets that there is such a thing as weakness and underweight.

Samoa restores health to the whole system so that the tissues assimilate from the food all of those elements which make solid bone, firm muscle, pure blood, and sufficient fat to restore beautiful and symmetrical outline to the figure.

An increase in weight is seen with the first week's use of Samoa, but it does not restore you to your proper weight and give you full vigor and vitality. Druggist Hall & Lyon Company will return your money. You certainly can afford to try Samoa on this guarantee.

A PROMINENT DEMOCRAT.

William Harrity, Cleveland's Campaign Manager of 1892, Dead.

PHILADELPHIA, April 17.—William F. Harrity, former chairman of the Democratic national committee and once powerful in national Democratic councils, died today at his home in Overbrook, a suburb. He was 62 years old. Mr. Harrity had been in failing health for several years, but was at his law office as late as last Saturday.

Mr. Harrity was a director in many local financial institutions. He achieved fame as the manager of the campaign of Grover Cleveland in 1892, he being given much of the credit for the Democratic success that year. Mr. Harrity withdrew largely from active participation in politics in 1896 after the nomination of Bryan for the Presidency.

PLEDGED FOR TAFT.

Delegate to Connecticut Convention Demands Roosevelt be Chosen.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., April 17.—Declaring for President Taft and pledging Connecticut's 14 votes for him in the national convention, the Republican state convention closed today after a session which was enlivened in the last moments by H. C. Bates of Chester, a delegate, demanding that Colonel Roosevelt be made the choice. The delegates rose in their seats and, hats in hand, cheered for President Taft. The chairman quieted the delegates, saying that every one should have a fair show in a Republican convention. Quiet came and Bates said that everybody was saying President Taft was a weak man. "We can't elect him; give us a live man; give us Roosevelt," he said.

ALL WOMEN SAVED.

Private Wireless Says They Are All on the Carpathia.

NEW YORK, April 17.—"All women saved. On the Carpathia." This wireless despatch was received today from Mrs. Caroline Bonnell, one of the Titanic's rescued passengers now bound for New York on the Carpathia. The message came to H. W. Bonnell of Youngstown, her brother, stopping at the Waldorf Astoria, from Mrs. Bonnell's uncle, on the Olympic. Before sailing it was agreed that Mrs. Bonnell on the Titanic was to come in touch with her uncle on the Olympic as soon as possible on the voyage. The message from the Carpathia was caught by the Olympic and relayed to New York.

CHESTER SENDS DESPATCH.

Will Relay List of Titanic's Third-Class Passengers.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—The following telegram has just been received by the Navy Department from Commander Decker of scout cruiser Chester, via Portland, Maine:

"Carpathia states that list of first and second class passengers and crew sent to shore. Chester will relay list third class passengers when convenient to Carpathia."

The message is taken to mean that the list transmitted by wireless from the Carpathia to the station at Cape Race, Newfoundland, through the Olympic, contains the names of all the first and second class passengers rescued.

CHESTER INCREASES SPEED.

Scout Cruiser Hurrying Out to Communicate With the Carpathia.

BOSTON, April 17.—Scout cruiser Chester, at 7 a. m. today, sent the following message to her sister ship, the Salem, relayed through the Charlestown navy yard:

"Increasing speed to 24 knots. As soon as able to reach Carpathia will relay to you. Not able to communicate direct."

The Chester gave her location as latitude 40.36 north; longitude 65.40 west.

NEW NAMES ON LIST.

Charles Hays Not Given Among the Survivors of the Titanic.

LONDON, April 17.—The list of survivors of the Titanic disaster, as given out by the White Star line officers here, contains the names of both Mr. and Mrs. Jacques Futrell of Boston. Previous lists published here contained the name of Mrs. Futrelle only. Another new name appearing on the list of second-class passengers is that of Miss Finney. The name of Charles M. Hays, president of the Grand Trunk railway, does not appear on the line's list here.

COMMUNICATES WITH CARPATHIA

Cunarder Reports 20 Icebergs Near Scene of Titanic Disaster.

HALIFAX, Nova Scotia, April 17.—The wireless station at Sable Island was in communication for a time with the Cunarder Carpathia, this morning, en route to New York with the survivors of the Titanic on board. The Carpathia reported that 20 icebergs were sighted off the banks near where the Titanic sunk, but no details of the disaster were sent.

The wireless station here reported a violent electrical storm off Sable Island early today, which cut off communication with the Carpathia at that time.

Communication with the Carpathia is greatly hampered by the maze of wireless flashes that are being sent out by the fleet of steamers dotting the ocean, all seeking news of the Titanic disaster. Apparently not until the Carpathia gets out of range of these ships will anything filter through.

INQUIRERS SCAN LISTS.

Relatives of Titanic Passengers at White Star Offices All Night.

LONDON, April 17.—Although hope practically has been given up concerning the list of survivors of the sunken Titanic, the officers of the White Star line in London, Southampton and Liverpool were again besieged this morning by throngs of anxious inquirers. Some of these who had relatives on board, in fact, remained at the offices throughout the night scanning the lists given out during the early hours which, however, proved not to contain any fresh names, but merely a correction of those given before. Those who waited in the London offices were mostly horses there for their families.

Early today the White Star Company gave out the statement received from the captain of the Olympic that neither the Virginian nor the Parisian had survivors on board, and expressing the belief that all those who had been rescued were on board the Carpathia.

While travelers generally understood the fact that the great liners do not carry enough boats to accommodate the whole of the passengers and crew, to the general public the news that all on board the Titanic did not have a chance of saving their lives in this way came as a rude surprise and there is likely to be considerable agitation in and out of Parliament on the subject.

The Lord Mayor of London today opened a Mansion House fund for the relief of the families of the crew of the Titanic and of any others left in needy circumstances in consequence of the disaster.

A memorial service for the victims is to be held at St. Paul's Cathedral April 19.

Much indignation is expressed in connection with the publication of the telegrams stating that the Titanic was in tow of the Virginian just after the news of the accident was received. Colonel Charles E. Yate, member of Parliament for Leicestershire, will ask the president of the Board of Trade in the House of Commons if his attention has been drawn to the publication of the telegrams and whether their origin could be traced.

TO MEMORY OF JOHN PAUL JONES.

Monument Unveiled in Potomac Park, Washington.

Statue Shows the Great Naval Commander in Full Uniform.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—The unveiling of the statue of John Paul Jones in Potomac park here today brought to a close a movement begun several years ago to provide some appropriate testimonial to the memory of the great naval hero. It started when a wave of public interest was excited by the discovery in France and removal to America of the remains of the early sea fighter. Much difficulty was experienced in selecting a design for the memorial from the large number of models submitted by famous sculptors. The choice finally fell upon the design offered by Charles H. Niehaus of New York for a statue. A setting for the statute included a fountain, pelon and approaches, the whole work costing $60,000.

The memorial is located on the northwest shore of the tidal basin in Potomac park, at the foot of seventeenth street, not far from the White House, the Pan American Union building, the home of the Daughters of the American Revolution, and other beautiful buildings. It is the first statue to be erected within the limits of the new Potomac park, and is also the first purely naval monument to be raised in this city since that unveiled in memory of Admiral Dupont in 1884.

The Jones memorial differs in many respects from other similar structures in the national capital. It consists of a marble pylon of classic design as the background for a colossal bronze figure of the intrepid naval commander of the early days of the republic. The pylon is a massive rectangular tower about 15 feet in height. It occupies the centre of an ornamental fountain, water of which is supplied from the bronze heads of dolphins on each side of the pylon.

The statue of John Paul Jones stands at the base of the monument in front of the pedestal. It is of heroic proportions, being about ten feet high. The great naval commander is shown in full uniform, with an expression and pose suggestive of his indomitable will and unconquerable spirit. He has been modelled as though watching a naval engagement. His right hand is clenched and his left hand clutches a sword. As the sculptor put it, here's the representation of a man capable of doing almost anything, and not simply a man who can do only one thing."

There are several appropriate inscriptions on the memorial, suggested by Representative Lemuel P. Padgett of Tennessee, chairman of the House committee on naval affairs, and approved by the Jones memorial commission, consisting of the secretaries of war and navy and the chairman of the Congressional committees on library. Under the statue is inscribed

"1747. 1792."

First
To compel foreign men-of-war
To strike colors to the Stars and Stripes."

There are two inscriptions on the rear of the pylon. One of these is on the stone forming the cap of the shaft. It embodies the language popularly attributed to Commodore Jones women whose husbands had started for America on business or to make new when called upon by the commander of the British frigate Serapis to surrender the battered American ship Bonhomme Richard. The inscription is arranged in two lines, and without quotation marks, as follows:

—Surrender?—
I have not yet begun to fight.

The other inscription is just below the bas relief representing Commodore Jones raising the United States flag for the first time on an American warship. It reads:

In life he honored the flag
In death the flag shall honor him.

TO BE SENT TO OWNER.

Governor Wilson's Suit Case Found Near St. Mary's Church, Chicago.

CHICAGO, April 17.—Governor Woodrow Wilson's suit case, which was stolen from his rooms in a down town hotel here ten days ago, was found last night as the result of an anonymous telephone message to the hotel. The message said the case could be found in an areaway between St. Mary's Church and the parish house. A detective was sent to the place and found the suit case which contained a dress suit, soiled linen and papers. Apparently none of the contents had been touched. It was at St. Mary's parish house that Governor Wilson was dining, with Father P. J. O'Callaghan when the suit case was stolen. The property will be sent to the owner.

BELGIAN AIRMAN KILLED.

Vorrept's Monoplane Collapses and Falls Distance of 600 Feet.

VERSAILLES, France, April 17.—John Vorrept, the well known Belgian airman who had participated in many of the leading sporting events in Europe, was killed today while making a flight at the Aerodrome here. For some unknown cause his monoplane collapsed at a height of 600 feet and he fell to the ground and was instantly killed.

10—Opening prices in the stock market reflected a degree of steadiness, which soon gave way to irregularity. The several issues of the International Mercantile Marine Company showed a better tone, the common stock advancing ⅝, the preferred a full point and the 4½ per cent bonds 1¾ points. Fractional gains were made in Anaconda Copper, Union Pacific, common and preferred, Republican Iron & Steel preferred, Missouri Pacific and the Can issues, with a gain of a point for Tennessee Copper. United States Steel, which opened with a slight advance, soon showed a heavier tendency as did the Can issues and Union Pacific.

Noon—Some improvement was made in the second hour, Union Pacific, Reading, New York Central, St. Paul and Amalgamated Copper showing some support, especially the latter, while American Can made complete recovery. Later United States Steel also made up much of its loss, but continued heavy on rumors connected with the next dividend. Elsewhere the list dragged along fitfully, with trading at a minimum and a lack of initiative for either account. Weakness in the fertilizer shares was the prominent feature of the special group. Bonds were irregular. Money on call easier at 3 per cent. Prime mercantile paper 4¼ to 4½ per cent. Exchanges $397,632,350; balances $16,985,765.

MODERN IN EVERY WAY.

Two Manual and Pedal Instrument, With Pneumatic Action.

Detailed Description of the New Estey Organ for St. Joseph's Church.

The new pipe organ to be installed in St. Joseph's Church is to be built by the Estey Organ Company of Brattleboro, Vt. It will be a two-manual and pedal instrument with radiating pedal board; will contain 15 speaking stops, 9 couplers and 9 mechanical accessories. The action will be pneumatic and will be modern in every particular.

The usual open wind chests will not be found in this instrument. Each stop stands on a separate chest, whose wind supply is absolutely unaffected by the others. The chests are pneumatic in the sense that each pipe has an individual valve under it. There will not be a single capped or mitred pipe in any stop of open tone. The Estey patent pipes will be used, making it possible to produce the same quality of tone throughout the entire register. There will be no borrowing or duplication of stops. All basses will be full length and no clearoning devices will be allowed in any department. The specifications were drawn with great care, having in mind the fact that both quality and volume would be required.

The organ will be blown by an electric blower, located in the choir room, the wind being conducted through a galvanized iron tube.

The dimensions will be approximately as follows: Height, 15 feet; width, 17 feet; depth, 8 feet. The case will be of quartered oak and the display pipes will be finished in gold bronze.

Great Organ.

1—Open diapason, 8 feet, metal, 61 pipes.
2—Dulciana, 8 feet, metal, 61 pipes.
3—Gross flute, 8 feet, wood, 61 pipes.

18—Bourdon, 16 feet, wood, 30 pipes.
19—Bass flute, 8 feet, wood, 30 pipes.
20—Lieblich Gedeckt (12 notes from No. 9), 16 feet, wood, 18 pipes.
21—Great to pedal.
22—Swell to pedal.

Pedal Movements.

Great to pedal reversible.

Balanced Swell Pedal.

Balanced crescendo and diminuendo pedal, controlling entire organ, bringing on the stops in order of strength, the reverse motion cancelling the stops in the inverse order of actuation.

Mechanical Accessories.

Combination pistons placed below their respective manuals, to be double acting:
Two affecting great and pedal.
Three affecting swell and pedal.
Wind indicator.
Tremolo.
Crescendo indicator.
Organ bench with music compartment.

Summary.

Great organ, 4 stops, 244 pipes.
Swell organ, 6 stops, 366 pipes.
Pedal organ, 3 stops, 78 pipes.
Total speaking stops and pipes, 13 stops, 688 pipes.
Couplers, 9.
Pedal movements, 3.
Mechanical accessories, 9.

FATHER MATHEW MINSTREL ACTS.

One of the features of the Father Mathew Society minstrel show will be the comedy sketch offered by Harry Hickok and Charles Crane, entitled "Theatrical Tangles." Both Hickok and Crane are well known entertainers and it is said that the sketch is full of laughs and surprises.

Another act in the olio will be the newest version of "The Fashion Review," a feature originated by the "Tabs" Minstrel Company. This is a song and dance number by 10 young men, half of whom are attired in the latest style of feminine fashion. As the costumes for this act are of the panier type, this style will have its first public exhibition in this city at the coming performances.

The minstrels are holding nightly rehearsals and the end men are reputed to have a stock of local jokes up their sleeves, so that it is safe to say that they will deal mostly with the current events of the city.

EXPLAINING THEIR IDEAS.

Bidders for the Beach Lease Outline Their Proposed Plans.

Many Suggestions Offered at the Public Hearing by the Board of Aldermen.

The Board of Aldermen gave a public hearing Tuesday evening on the beach lease proposition. First the board met in executive session at 7 o'clock in the mayor's office and remained there until just before 8. The members had copies of the list of bids for the beach and its several parts and sent down for the record of the Council proceedings, but just what they did while in executive session was not disclosed for publication.

In the meantime the Council chamber had begun to fill with men interested in the beach proposition, members of the Easton's Beach Improvement Association, other bidders, and outsiders just looking on. There seemed to be more than Monday evening, when the bids were opened.

It was just before 8 when Mayor Boyle and the members of the Board of Aldermen with the city solicitor entered the Council chamber and took seats, the mayor occupying the chairman's desk, and the hearing was opened.

Mayor Boyle asked Judge Burke, who was speaking for Mr. Gifford, the highest bidder, if the bidder proposed to insure, police and light the beach. Some of the other bidders considered this evidence that the hearing was a mere form and that it made no difference what they said, and in consequence some had not a word to say in regard to the bids which they had made. The hearing was thus reduced in its scope, but four of the bidders had something to say. Each presented his case well and the hearing as a whole was a success, in showing that there is a feeling of interest in the beach matter and that it is quite widespread.

When Mayor Boyle called the meeting to order he explained that the hearing was to afford the bidders an opportunity to give more details about their plans and generally to discuss the whole matter of beach improvement. The board desired to receive all the suggestions and ideas it could before taking action on the matter of a lease, that it might act for the best interests of all. To give some regularity to the procedure he suggested that they be heard in the order of their bids, the highest being first to speak. He then called on H. H. Gifford, the highest bidder.

Judge Burke said he had come in behalf of Mr. Gifford. His client's proposal was bona fide, both his bid of $10,000 for the whole beach and $500 for the bathing privileges. Judge Burke said he wished to assure the Board of Aldermen that his client was acting solely on his own behalf and not bidding for others, as reported. The board should act in the interest of the city. His client is ready to accept the conditions of the city, whatever they are. He knows the beach from two years' experience there and is able to conduct it to the interest of the people. Considering every bid from every aspect, the highest should be awarded the lease.

Mayor Boyle: It is possible that a bond will be required to insure the lease, and then there is the policing, lighting and insurance of the property. Is your client prepared to assume these?

Judge Burke: Do I understand that you expect these things that are not in the proposal?

Mayor Boyle: They have been done in the past in part.

Judge Burke: They are rather unusual requirements. The policing should be up to the city and the insuring is usually cared for by the owner.

Alderman Hughes: There is the question of the bond.

Mayor Boyle: It has been suggested that a $25,000 bond might be required.

Judge Burke: As I understand this has not been definitely decided.

Mayor Boyle: No, but it has been discussed.

Mr. Burke: The insurance will probably amount to $1,500 or $1,600 a year.

Nathan David was the next highest bidder and when he was called he said Clark Burdick, his attorney, would do the talking. Mr. Burdick said that behind Mr. David's bid were a number of citizens who thought the beach should be run in the interest of the city of Newport; among these were himself, Mr. MacLeod, H. C. Stevens, E. A. Sherman, Packer Brayton and others. The bid had been drawn by his firm and quite fully conveys what it is proposed to do—to keep the buildings in good repair and insured, to put up such buildings as are necessary for the proper development of the beach. The insurance would cost about $1,500 a year and what it would cost to keep the buildings in repair and to make additions cannot well be figured now.

Alderman Hughes asked if there was any objection to giving the board the full list of men interested in the offer. Mr. Burdick said there was not and he would furnish a list.

George R. Lawton of Tiverton was the next bidder in order, but no one spoke for him. The next was John Spillane & Co., no one appearing for him.

Joseph J. Kirby & Co. came next and Mr. Kirby spoke, saying he did not anticipate talking, as he and his associates had stated to some length what they propose to do in the letter which they sent with their bid. He called attention to some of the statements which they had made in writing which he desired considered if it was decided for any reason not to accept the higher bids. He said it was their proposition to spend $5,000 a year for improvements and at the end of their lease the buildings would revert to the city. The insurance was a matter for the committee to dictate.

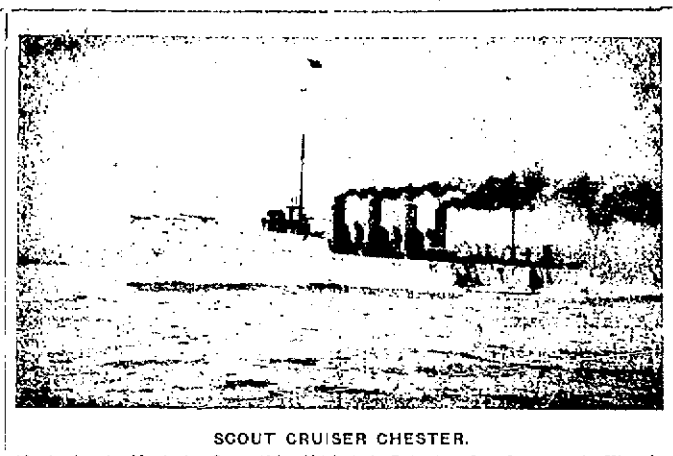

Mayor Boyle: Do you mind naming your associates.

Mr. Kirby: They are John Burke, Hart Dewick, David Burke and John Kay. It is our money that we are putting in, our all, and if we fail in making a success we go broke on the proposition.

W. J. Dayton of Boston and E. K. Robinson of Winthrop, Me., next and no one appeared for them. The Columbia Company of Newport was next in order but there was no response when the name was called.

For the Newport Beach Improvement Association Mr. D. J. Sheehan did the talking, being frequently ap-

CAMPAIGN IN FULL SWING.

Varied Methods of the Men and Religion Movement Illustrated.

Convention Addresses, Institutes for Study and Workers' Conference.

At the men's convention of the Men and Religion Forward Movement Tuesday afternoon Rev. Dr. Holyoke presided. After opening exercises, Professor J. B. Burgess gave an interesting, almost picturesque paper on "The Basal Value of Bible Study." He spoke of various sorts of Bibles and showed the little copy of the testament which he carries in his pocket. Since he has been carrying it new thoughts have come to him. Then there is the family Bible; what deep, intense life comes from it! Regular attendance at Sunday School is needful.

In boys' work the Bible shows how the young David was chosen to great work. As to race conservation the Book says: "Children are a heritage of the Lord. Blessed is the man who has his quiver full of them." Eugenics—those Biblical genealogies—shew the consideration of the descendants.

In social work, how much is meant by the record that Jesus was a carpenter and his Apostles were fishermen. There are so many messages against oppression and the awful scourge of social impurity. The old Jewish law expressly provided that food was free to the hungry, to help themselves. Social service has a beautiful ideal in the ancient idyl of Ruth.

Bible study is basal in the Men and Religion Movement. It stands the strain which no individual or institution can so stand—the test of holding the good of the old while keeping fully abreast of the most modern ideas. The play, "The Servant in the House," is really Biblical. Its author once made a contribution to a ministers' meeting by reading for two hours to the clergymen, from the Bible. It is basal because it is so deeply rooted in the past and yet reaches out so to the present and the future.

It is a wonder that an ancient book like the Bible is such an incentive to men of today to "go." That book of Jonah with its troublesome spirit emphasizes the "go" to foreign lands. Jesus, as he went through hostile Samaria, found time to talk with the woman at the well, thereby breaking down the prejudice against even an impure woman as well as towards those slightly astray. How severe some are on those just a little outside of what they consider the fold. And that heathen Syro-Phoenician woman—there was thorough missionary and community extension work. The book of Acts is full of this work.

Again, the Bible is basal because it is a book for men—up-to-date men. Men of red blood did the acts recorded there. These were men who dared. See Caleb: He encouraged the youths to dare by the promise of his beautiful daughter as a wife to the one who would take the city.

Mr. Justice Brewer had his Bible class each Sunday in Washington attended by cultured minds. And on the prairies the cowboys are studying it. Midnight workers study it. In Korea great masses are studying it. As one has said: "The Bible is rammed with life;" therefore it appeals to men.

Rev. Joseph Cooper opened the discussion, speaking of civics. Mr. D. B. Allen asked why Professor Burgess carried the Testament. The latter said in order to be able to turn instantly to a passage or to read at odd moments. There can be ostentation about it; there should not be; but it is possible to be too secretive about doing a good thing. Mr. Allen said he wished to start a men's class and desired all the help he could find. Rev. G. G. Merrill aroused considerable laughter by a description of his efforts to find B.Sles in stores. Rev. Dr. D. G. McKeever said he had come here without his library and had been to the library here to find helps for Bible study. He is still dependent on his memory. Rev. Dr. H. N. Jeter believed in carrying the Bible in the hand. Rev. G. A. Hulbert spoke of the education from pictures for the kindergarten grades. Professor Burgess referred to the stereopticon Bible slides to be had in Boston and New York.

Dr. Holyoke introduced Mr. Hawkins, who spoke on "The Boy." He said Uncle Sam makes liberal allowances for the study of hogs, soils, etc., but it is only recently that the boy has been considered an important study. The adolescent period is of greatest importance; it is so full of changes. Sex love, something entirely new to him, comes over him and religious motives and moral obligations to others greatly develop. This is the time they begin to do team work and make the "sacrifice hit." Now hereditary influences show themselves rapidly. Imagination stretches out beyond limit.

Hero worship is important to him and shows the line of Bible study which will reach him. Just to say, "Be good," does not touch him. He seeks to follow the strong appeals to his nature. The passions, good and evil, are greatly intensified. Great patience and sympathy are due him as he passes into so many unexpected experiences. He is full of all sorts of sudden changes. He needs help and kindly guidance.

The speaker believed many young men are crowded out of the churches because of lack of sympathy on the part of the officers. It should be the aim of the church to recognize character building in the boy from all its standpoints. He would urge upon all church men a larger consideration of the problem of training boys. He knew some churches which make careful restrictions, in order that the furnishings of the church may not be too soon worn out by the boys. Giving them too many privileges would perhaps cause more wear and tear of the carpet and perhaps result in a broken window occasionally. Nevertheless, the speaker said, we can better afford to increase our appropriations for current repairs than to work ourselves into a frenzy at revival meetings, hoping to bring them back after they have been lost to us.

Boys respond to teaching more easily than men; they are not so critical about the little details which interest their elders. He believed churches should interest themselves in everything which makes for the development of the boy. The sex problem is highly important, and Mr. Hawkins spoke of the need of fathers and Sunday School teachers giving advice on this subject.

In the discussion which followed there was a pointed interrogation regarding the advisability of teaching sex questions in the Sunday School. Mr. Hawkins believed these should be taught in the Sunday Schools, by men. The ideal way is for father to teach son. All men of course are not qualified to teach sex problems; the better way is to have a teachers' class, taught by some one qualified. Rev. Edward Holyoke said the place to teach this subject to fathers is in the Brotherhoods. Mr. Hawkins cited a booklet called, "From Youth to Manhood" and others as excellent text-books on the sex problem.

The institutes, another branch of the campaign work, were started at 7 o'clock Tuesday evening in five different rooms, each expert teaching a special department. About 50 or 60 men attended. At the Young Men's Christian Association two were going on, the boys' work under Mr. Hawkins and the social service under Messrs. Phelps and Bradford.

Mr. Hawkins used the blackboard in his talk on boys' work. He spoke on the need of studying the boy, having trained teachers for him, and following a program in work for him. His character, his life in all departments, including athletics, should be developed, latent capacities brought out and Christian character built up. He recommended the following books: "Boys' Life and Self-Government," by Fiske; "Boy Training," by Alexander; "Adolescent Boyhood," by Hall.

Rev. Mr. Hulbert was one of those following in the discussion. Inter-Sunday School athletics were recommended.

Mr. Phelps spoke of the need of regulating air spaces and having the right sort of schools, of providing recreation for children under due supervision, and playgrounds. For the employed, proper food, shelter and recreation should be provided. Foreigners come to this country and see only bad dens—saloons, pawnshops and red lights. They think that is American life and imitate it. Do Americans desire this? Public schools should be used nights for their benefit. They are worth much to this country; $1,000 or more each in money value. As to the "bum," the speaker said he is no more a menace than the fashionable idler in the club. As to beggars he thought one should give only food, and then only what is eaten on the spot.

Mr. Bradford went right at practical points. He arraigned American schools, and said 75 per cent of the bosses of manufacturing establishments of this country and Canada are foreigners, educated in Europe. In Germany girls are taught the name, use and price of every bit of meat in an animal, and to figure exactly the cost of any meal or of providing for any given family for any given time.

The speaker strongly advocates a "public market." Such a market would perhaps cost $20,000. It will make 2½ or 3 per cent. There are also co-operative stores, which will tide a man over a period of lack of work. Prices are kept as low as possible and only large articles are delivered.

In the speaker's town there is a full vocational system of examination for school pupils. A boy's ancestors are looked into for several generations back. He is advised what work is best for him to choose and the examination opens the boy's eyes to many things about himself. If a school boy doesn't "make good" the examination will tell why, and they put him on the road to success.

At the Second Baptist Church, speaking of preparation for evangelism and community extension, Rev. Dr. Holyoke said it is not the study of books which we need, not even the study of the Bible, important as that is. All that is futile without the spirit of compassion in Jesus Christ. Stand on the main street of any large city at night, and note the restless mass of humanity as it passes before the eye. Here is a policeman, with his alert eye, looking for the first sign of disturbance; here is a doctor, in readiness should there be an accident requiring his services; here is a reporter, looking for an item for the press; here is a lawyer on the lookout for anything which may develop into a case for him; here is a minister, seeking an illustration for tomorrow's sermon. I have often thought, said the speaker, as I looked out on the great moving crowd at night: What would be Christ's feeling in gazing on these people? "Here is a flock of sheep, not having a shepherd." He went out after them through the compassion in his heart, and would win them all to him would they let him.

He spoke of the value of concerted individual effort to bring some one else into the church; hand-to-hand individual work. Read Trumbell for an illustration of individual opportunity and see how he and Vassa found opportunity.

Rev. F. F. Hanscom spoke of his church extension propaganda, and said he intended bringing the same message, individual work, with a little different emphasis. He believed the trouble with the Protestant churches is that they do not feel that they are here on business, to obtain results for the Kingdom. A Catholic friend brought this fact home to him forcibly at one time, when he was telling how the Catholic priests are responsible for certain results from their parish. Supposing we were sent out by a business house and at the end of a certain period wrote to the company saying that we had seen many people, showed many of our samples and the people evidently seemed much pleased with them. How long do you suppose we would be retained by the firm?

Rev. Mr. Hanscom spoke of the FLEET TO BE BASED HERE.

Ships to Be in Narragansett Bay a Good Part of Each Year.

Secretary Meyer Asks the Mayor to Secure Additional Landing Places for the Men.

Mayor Boyle has received the following letter from Secretary of the Navy Meyer regarding the need of more landing places for the sailors of the Atlantic fleet, which will be based on Narragansett bay during the summer:

"I beg to inform you that the U. S. Atlantic fleet will be based on Narragansett bay throughout most of the period extending from May 1 to November 1, 1912, and that during this time the enlisted men of the fleet will be given frequent liberty at Newport.

"As the fleet will consist of 17 battleships, with attendant auxiliaries, the torpedo and submarine flotillas and approximately 20,000 men, one half of whom may be given liberty at one time, the need of suitable and adequate landings for liberty parties becomes a matter of serious consideration. During previous visits of the fleet the ships have been allowed the use of Commercial wharf through the courtesy of the owners, but this will not be sufficient for liberty boats of the whole fleet.

"I therefore have the honor to request that the city authorities give this matter attention at an early date. If proposed plans of the fleet prove successful, the department will consider basing the fleet on Narragansett bay throughout a good portion of each year. It is believed that the advantages of this plan to the business interests of your city are so manifest that these will co-operate towards providing suitable landings."

Mayor Boyle will at once secure from the owners of wharves along the harbor front the privilege of establishing a sufficient number of landing places for the fleet, and it is confidently expected that these will be readily secured, so that the mayor may reply to Secretary Meyer's letter at an early date. The presence of the fleet, or a large portion of it, in these waters during six months of the year will be recognized as of great commercial advantage to Newport and its citizens and business men will cordially enter into a plan for the convenience of the members of the fleet, which must add materially to the resources of the city.

The entertainment of the men in 1910, when on three successive days the sailors and marines were given a Rhode Island clambake, each day, to a large number of men, is already bearing fruit and the department, in its plans for the future is looking upon Newport with more favorable eyes than upon any place along the coast, as a permanent base for the fleet manoeuvres during the summer months. The basing of the fleet here this year is regarded as a step towards the establishment of a naval base in Narragansett bay which will include dry docks, repair shops and yards, with the accompanying large number of high-class artisans and workmen and many permanent naval employes, who will make Newport and the neighboring towns their homes.

MR. AND MRS. SIMMONS RECEIVE.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward E. Simmons, who were married here last month, gave a reception Tuesday evening to a large party at their home on Bellevue avenue. The bride received her guests wearing a gown of Irish lace over white messaline and carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley. She was assisted by Miss Ethel Riley of New Bedford, who wore a gown of pink messaline, Mr. Edward Ayer of Portsmouth, also assisted in the reception and Messrs. Lloyd Noyes, Joseph Forrester, Wellington Willard and Vernon Buchanan acted as ushers. The collation was served under the direction of Mr. Edward Jackson.
